Black History Month Celebration

Ida B. Wells Video Screening: Sunday, February 21, 2021 at 3 PM

Colored People's Day:

Ida B. Wells at the Chicago World's Fair

Journalist and anti-lynching advocate, Ida B. Wells, attended the Chicago's World Fair in 1893. Alongside the local and international attractions, Ida B. Wells worked with her mentor Frederick Douglass to present aspects of African American history and culture. Well's powerful message against lynching reached thousands and shed light on America's shameful secret.

Playwright and performer Karima A. Robinson, PhD has led performance and African American history workshops in New York and Connecticut. She earned her Interdisciplinary Ph.D. in Theatre and Drama with a concentration in Africana performance traditions from Northwestern University.
